"BNIM has significantly affected the course of architecture. The firm's vigorous, long term leadership in architectural design and civic initiatives, and their numerous tangible accomplishments have unquestionably improved the built environment, have inspired the public and have made enduring contributions to society. They have a gift of seeing through the density of competing ideas, they understand the challenges of making a better place to live and they are not afraid to lead us there. Their vision, passion and commitment have been passed on through succeeding principals, staff and new out-growth firms and as a consequence, their contributions and influence will be felt for decades to come."
