Frederik Heuser

bnim DESIGN

Frederik joined the San Diego office after graduating from Kansas State University with a Master of Architecture. While he was in school, an internship in Zurich gave him the opportunity to study sustainable housing models. His most recent academic interest focused on the intersection between biological sciences and the philosophy of architecture. This led to an involvement with ANFA and an interest in the corporeal dimensions of the built environment, specifically through tectonics, atmosphere, and memory of place.
