Jeff Marsch AIA

bnim DESIGN

Jeff joined the San Diego office in the spring of 2018. Jeff is interested in architecture as the nexus where art, science, and society meet. A California registered architect, his background in sculpture informs a deep interest in crafting beautiful and unique spaces that heighten the human experience.

Most recently Jeff has worked on the programming and design for the first phase of SuperBlock, a three-phase plan providing 1,000,000 SF of innovative workplace in the I.D.E.A. District of East Village San Diego. The first phase of the plan includes the Idea Warehouse, a 100,000 SF renovation of an existing storage facility into open office work space.
