bnim ARCHITECTURE

Jeremy Nelson is an adept designer and project manager who embraces challenges with confidence and engagement. He approaches each project with the social and physical urban planning dynamics in mind, designing buildings that positively impact individuals and their surrounding community. In collaborative environments, he has found natural opportunities to be a leader, define the group direction, and problem-solve with his colleagues. At BNIM, Jeremy has emerged as a resource for the integration of technology into architecture, implementing processes that are more nimble and efficient.
