bnim ASSOCIATE PRINCIPAL

Rohn Grotenhuis has three decades of experience as an architect, during which he has touched all aspects of the profession — from design and project management, to contracts and staffing. Throughout his career, Rohn has won numerous awards as a designer. His work spans a variety of project types and scales, on all of which he maintains a focus on nurturing client relationships. Rohn served as an integral member of the team for the renewal and transformation of two library facilities on Georgia Tech's Atlanta campus, the Programming and Feasibility Study for Kennedy Library at Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, and the renovation of BNIM's Kansas City office, 2460 Pershing. Rohn is currently leading BNIM's team in the design of the Center for Connected Learning at UC Berkeley's Moffitt Library.
